Baltimore, in pursuance of the promise made to the committee of the councils of that city.

-San Francisco has had a wedding that, for rank second only to New York among the cities of America. The bride was the daughter of a merchant prince, Mr. Friedlander, known as the "Grain King." The bridegroom was the son of Dr. Bowie, a leading physician. The trousseau cost $10,000, and was full and magnifloent beyond that of any former California bride. The presents, besides $150,000 from the father, amounted to $30,000 in jewelry and gold and silver service.

-The Siamese Twins are hardly the fashion this time in London. On their last visit everybody went to see them, and Lord Lytton (then Sir E. Bulwer), made use of their name and their singular tie to satirize English society. The press now speaks of the exhibition with unconcealed disgust. The twins are old men, and their wrinkles and worn features make the spectacle some degrees more repulsive than before. One of the journals wanted the police to prevent them from appearing in public; but the zeal for the proprieties has hardly reached such a pitch as yet, and the suggestion was laughed at. An ingenious admirer seeks to popularize them by announcing that "they were slaveholders, enthusiastic Southerners, and lost largely by the collapse of the South.' As twin Confederates, it is surmised they have a peculiar claim upon English sympathy.

Late East Indian papers give accounts of the violent earthquake which shook various parts of Bougal between January 10 and 11. It was most severely felt in Cachar and Assam. The earthquake was felt as far west of Calcutta as Dinapore. Cachar, where it was most severe, is on the line of volcanic action which, stretching from the Eastern Fimalayas, runs down the coast of Burman, where there are several extinct volcanoes, to the Eastern Archipelago, where volcanie phenomena on a large scale are of frequent occurrence. At the latter place the earth seemed agitated by a great wave, rising in a swell twenty feet high, tossing trees and buildings about, and making the hills reel as the convulsion passed. The an bour, tossing the water fifty feet into the air and forming numerous water spouts. The earth opened in hundreds of places, vomiting up volumes of blue sand and water and engulfing houses, cattle and men, in some cases closing over what it had swallowed, and in others remaining in yawning abysses, showing the roofs of houses twenty feet below the surface. The convulsion was felt over all of Lower Bengal at the same time, and continued with slight shocks for several days.

-The burning of the steamer Mittie Stephens, in Red River, on the night of the 1st instant, involving the loss of a large number of lives, has been mentioned. Further details by mail represent the scene as truly heartrending. The hour of midnight had just been chimed by the clock when the pilot discovered signs of fire on the forecastle, where, it seems a large quantity of hay had been stowed. Four quick, successive taps of the bell gave the alarm to the crew. That alarm was the knell that summoned sixty-one souls to meet thoir Maker. Exertions almost superhuman were made by the men, but all to no purpose. Nearly one hundred frantic, terror-stricken people-men, women and children-were col-lected on the after guard, with the flames hissing and crackling behind and the prospect of a watery grave before them. Here fathers could be seen hunting for their wives and children, wives for their husbands, and children for their parents, amid the shricks and

As the flames ap- charge of the Department of the Interior, proached, all the men jumped overboard, some to find a watery grave, and others to save themselves by swimming; but not a woman could be induced to take the cold water, and they perished in the flames. In less than half an hour from the discovering of the fire the | General Cox is a man of first rate ability. vessel was a total wreck, and over sixty persons had perished. During the fire, a signal act of heroism was performed by Philip Hill. the carpenter, and a deck hand, named Jacob Stein. Twenty kegs of powder had been de posited in the magazine in the hold. With the presence of mind and a daring that have few parallels in the annals of steamboating. they, in the face of a horrible death, carried the powder up and threw it overboard. A moment lost, and there would have been no one to tell the awful story.

-Monday was "opening day" in New York with the milliners and modistes, and the various establishments are thronged accordingingly with fashionable fair ones in pursuit of new styles, &c. The bonnet of the coming season, it seems, is to be smaller than the one now in vogue, with little trimming at the sides, and no strings. A new style of round hat iz called the Rosalind. It is made of fancy straw. without brim, high in the centre, with a loop of green satin on one side, and white lace, edged with green satin ribbon, falling at the back. Prices take a wide range, say all the way from $10 to $45. Small capes are to be the prevailing style. Black silk sacques for street wear are loosely fitting in the back, extending a little below the belt; the front is a trifle deeper, while it is narrow on the shoulders and open under the arm, being joined by the belt. The trimming is of satin folds and black lace edging.

CHARLESTON

SATURDAY MORNING, MARCH 6, 1869.

The New Cabinet.

The riddle is solved at last. President Grant has announced the members of his Cabinet, and his nominations have been promptly confirmed by the Senate. The knowing ones, as the result shows, have been all at fault in their conjectures. The men whomthe new President called around him are unquestionably able, practical and well fitted to conduct their respective departments with advantage to the government and credit to themselves. But, in his selection of advisors, Grant plainly indicates that he means to be President in fact as well as in name. There is not, in the whole list, a man whose individual force of character or extreme views and prominent identification with Radical measures would give room for the fear that he might exert an evil away over the policy of the new administration. This, at least, is something in our favor.

Mr. Elihu B. Washburne, of Illinois, the new Secretary of State, was born in Maine, in 1816, served an apprenticeship in a printing office, studied law in Howard University, and, removing to the West, practiced law at Galena, Illinois. He was elected a representative to the $8d Congress from that State, and re-elected to the 34th. occasions as chairman of the Committee on Commerce. He was elected to the 27th and Sth Congresses, and on account of his having wed continuously for a longer period in a continuously for a longer period on the ington, for about a week after the expiration of "Father of the House." He was the author his term, when it is expected they will go to of the bill reviving the office of Lieutenant-General, which was conferred on Comera. Grant. He was re-elected to the 89th and extravagance in dress, wealth of outfit, and 40th Congresses. Mr. Washburne was value of presents, sustains her ambition to largely instrumental in bringing General TO REST. There seems to be a strong link of sympathy between President Grant and the veteran Congressman, who has for some time been regarded by the public as the coming power behind the throne. Mr. Washburne has been noted in Congress for his bitter and uncompromising opposition to financial rings and plundering cliques, and has fairly won the brave title of "Watch dog of the Treasury." He is a decided

Mr. A. T. Stewart, the dry goods millionaire. of New York City, who is to preside over the Treasury Department, is new to political life. A Scotchman by birth, he began his career in a very humble position, and working his way up by integrity, resolution and self-denial, is now able to count his property by tens of millions of dollars. Mr. Stewart, we believe, has never been guilty of a generous action, being as remarkable for his inflexibility in exacting the last farthing which is his due as for his astonishing commercial success." As an executive and administrative officer he will have but few equals, and if he devotes to national affairs, as he doubtless will, the ability, the honesty and the incorruptibility which have marked his individual career, there are hard times in store for the thieves and plunderers who grow fat by feeding at the public crib. Mr. Stewart is well advanced in years, but is full of life and vigor. During the late campaign he was a steady friend of General Grant, and has lately thrown an anchor to windward by heading a subscription to buy Grant's house for his successor, General Sherman. Mr. Stewart is not without ambition, and may have an eye to the Presidency in the distant future.

General Schofield, as was intimated by General Grant previous to his inauguration. will retain, for the present, the portfolio of

Mr. Adolphe E. Borie, of Pennsylvania, the Secretary of the Navy, is a retired merchant, of Philadelphia, having for many years been engaged in the East India trade, from which he reaped a princely fortune. He is regarded as one of the wealthiest men in the country. His private character is spotless; but he has never been mixed up in politics. During the war he was an active worker in behalf of the Union cause, and he served for several years as vice president of the Union League. In summer he resides at Torresdale, near Philadelphia, where he has a magnificent villa; but in winter he lives in Philadelserved throughout the war in the Federal army and attained the rank of Brigadier-General. In 1866, he was elected Governor of Ohio, which office he held until 1868 and is moderate in his political opinions.

Senator J. A. J. Creswell, of Maryland, the new Postmaster-General, was born in 1828, and came to the bar in 1850 He was a member of the Maryland House of Delegates in 1861 and 1862, and was elected a representative to the 38th Congress. In March, 1865, he was chosen United States Senator for the unexpired term of Senator T. H. Hicks, deceased. Senator Creswell is a man of ability, and belongs, politically, to the class known as " Southern leyalists."

Judge E. B. Hoar, of Massachusetts, whom President Grant has designated as Attorney General, while scarcely known in politics has won considerable distinction as a lawyer. He is about fifty years of age, and several years ago relinquished a lucrative practice for the seat on the Supreme Bench of Massachusetts, which he has since heid. He is said to be a man of the highest integrity and very positive in his manners. His brother entered the House of Representatives on Thursday, as the new member from the Worcester (Massachusetts) District.
